

Abstract (in English):

The aim of this bachelor is a survey of weapons and warfare in the Aegean Bronze Age. The author in each chapter focuses on collecting basic data of weapons and armors from the Bronze Age, and their probable use, including warfare and its significance. The compilation work is based on archaeological evidence collected in the literature and iconographic sources. It is followed by chronological period, focusing on the main locations of that period. In conclusion, the author summarizes the collected knowledge.