

The topic of his thesis Epidemiology of tularemia in the Czech Republic, I chose because of his long interest in infectious diseases, which have a wide field hosts, and are therefore a significant risk to the animals, but also humans. I like his work approached the issue of the disease in the Czech Republic.