

Abstract:

This thesis is focused on the legislation on the renewable energy sources, especially on the mechanisms of promotion granted to the producers of the electricity and heat from the renewable sources of energy. The thesis describes the contemporary regulation in the Czech republic and compares it to the relevant German regulation.