

Abstract:

Rigorous work deals with the current topic of domestic violence. Specifically, it deals with victims of domestic violence and protection capabilities, it offers the criminal law. The paper summarizes the most important concepts. It also discusses the particular criminal matters, where it focuses mainly on the catalog of offenses which may be committed in this context. In the section on criminal procedural law is analyzed status as victims of domestic violence victim in criminal proceedings. The thesis also deals with the issue of sanctions in relation to domestic violence, and last but not least is omitted or to the domestic violence in relation to children. Also shown is the phenomenon of stalking, which is in close relation to domestic violence. All these areas I have tried to critically evaluate in terms of whether their treatment is to protect victims of domestic violence are sufficient or whether it warrants a change.
