

ABSTRACT

This dissertation brings reflection over Protection of Industrial Property as a part of modern legal systems, which is getting more and more importance in legal systems of all states.

The dissertation deals with the protection of industrial property rights not only by domestic but also by international laws or arrangements, and considers how joining the Czech Republic to the European Union emphasis that the observance of all legal rules in this area have increased.