

Abstract

This thesis deals with philosophical concept of morality and ethics and their evolution over time. The introduction focuses on the precise definition of these terms. This work depicts the development of morality and ethics from ancient times through the medieval and modern, to the ethical systems of the 19.century and 20.century. Each period is organized into chapters and briefly characterized then I focus on at least two main streams nor two main leaders and their ideas. The work is more emphasized on contemporary ethical issues and their solutions in relation to philosophy.