Abstrakt

The topic of this bachelor thesis is dedicated to the development of social services for senior citizens in Klatovy and the surrounding villages from the year 1918 onwards.

The thesis has been divided into three main chapters. Chapter one describes the development of legislation concerning social services for senior citizens in the Czech Republic from 1918 until the present time. Legislation concerning short stay support and residential care are clearly presented.

Chapter two briefly describes the history of the town of Klatovy covering the same period as chapter one. Data about the history, population and other interesting facts regarding culture, politics and social life complete this chapter.

A list of institutions, which provided or provide short term residential services for senior citizens on the territory of the town and its nearest surrounding from 1918 onwards forms chapter 3.