

ABSTRACT

'The focus of this thesis is the ways in which art and motion come together in paintings of the 20th century.

It also deals with the connection between art and film, and how film production has been affected by art in visual, creative, and technical ways.

The didactic part of the thesis examines the relationship between static and dynamic images, and my own work will explore the way static and dynamic images interact in classic animated film.'