

The Diploma Work deals with folklore groups in Prague. It tries to map their foundation and development considering the aim of their foundation and regions from their members come. In the first chapter there is a list of the majority of groups and regional associations which perform non Prague folklore. In the next two chapters there I concentrate on two selected groups in great detail. These are Slovácký krúžek, the oldest still active regional association in Prague and the dulcimer music Kyčera. Kyčera is a hobby group serving to presentation of Wallachian folklore to the public through its performances and also through musical accompaniment of the dancing group Krušpánek and the children folklore group Vonička. At the end of my work there are presented conclusions arising from description of groups itself.
