

This diploma thesis is devoted to the CzechTek 2005 topic and the way it was presented in Tachovsky denik and Mlada fronta Dnes. More specifically it describes the period between July 27, 2005 and August 8, 2005. We tried to answer the question concerning this event coverage objectiveness. That means we decided to find out whether the event representation and following thematically wider debate were unbiased or rather biased, and if so in what direction and for the benefit of which participant or opinion. We also studied whether and how regional or global characteristics of a given media influenced possible biased coverage.
