

Abstract

Paul's understanding of the Law in the letters to Romans and Galatians

In the work ist first of all defined the concept of the Law and its importance for Jewish religion. Then is described the meanings of the concept in the letters of Paul. The next part deals with the letters to Galatians and Romans. Both letters are put in their historic continuity and then are described the parts, which deal with Law or another conected topics. The author used the commentaries and another specialist literature and explains the parts of the letters. After that follows a synthesis of all explained informations, which has to show the concept of the Law in the history of God's actions, according to Paul's understanding, which was presented in his letters. The addition of the synthesis deals with the relation of Paul's opinions to the temporaly situation, with the Jewish traditions and with the needs of our church at present.

Keywords

Paul, the Law, the letter to Romans, the letter to Galatians