

This bachelor's thesis deals with possible usage of cloud computing phenomena in the field of secondary grammar school management. Based on the comparison of national and international resources the thesis presents current progress in technologies and selected tools in the cloud computing and possible usage in the field of school management. The thesis also includes a research that shows the current knowledge of cloud solutions in the field of educational management and the evaluation of the current status of the use of cloud solutions in secondary grammar schools.