Title: Comparison of the quality of life between pathological gamblers in treatment and without treatment - quantitative method

Abstract:
This work deals with the pathological gambling and with a quality of life between pathological gamblers in treatment and without treatment. The theoretical part of this work derives from the special literature of both the Czech specialists and the foreign ones. The practical part deals with a practical research realized by an accidental selection of respondents. The theoretical part deals with what the addiction is and why it is included in this frame though the pathological gambling is an addictive impulsive disorder. Also this work deals with characters as well as with the way how this addiction and its follow-up treatment occur. Impacts on a gambler’s life are an essential part of this work, too. This work - in its practical part - uses a quantitative method of the research. The research was realized between pathological gamblers in treatment and without treatment, their answers are compared in graphs of the appropriate domains.
