The bachelors work is all about ethics like science, death and dieing with view to psychiatrics probléms. Ethics and moral acts seem to be necessary part of verbal and nonverbal communication in medical work. There are some patients in psychiatric profession,for example with advanced demencion , which are certainly in hands of ethics and moral principles of medical staff .

The theoretic part describes the patient with mental illnes, behind the gates of psychiatric clinic. It describes the moments concern him and his illnes. The live ends of some patients are situated to this clinic, the very end of my work is about that.

The empiric part investigates perceiving the close of death between middle-medical personnel and their approach to diing, mental ill patient.

The target of my bachelors work is to outline the difficult moments of mental ill lives, when their psychic become wrong and the lives ended in psychiatric clinic. There we can find the large space for ethics like science, because the ill and menthal ill people have rights to be nursed with moral overlook. The nurse would heave allways on mind, that the mental ill patient is still one of us,is still the human being.
