

The thesis attempts to present bullying from the standpoint of our leading professionals specialising in this particular issue. It describes bullying as a form of a socially pathological phenomenon. The thesis considers bullying as a process happening in the school environment. It pays attention to the characterization of who is an aggressor and a victim.