

Abstract

Evangelii Nuntiandi in some evangelistic methods.

The work represents the the principles of evangelism given in the Apostolic Exhortation Evangelii nuntiandi and at the same time these principles seek to describe the current evangelistic approach. Evangelism is based on the concept of the gospel and thesis presents the Good News (Gospel) as indicated in the Bible. Really well thought evangelization must cope with various difficulties. First, it helps contemporary man, often religiously uneducated and too reluctant to adapt himself to the language of ecclesiastical documents, and at the same time it must be firmly rooted in the tradition of the Church reflected in the Church documents. Such a document is the Apostolic Exhortation Evangelii Nuntiandi which makes the Evangelization dynamic and efficient. These fresh ideas are becoming a mainstay basis for various forms of contemporary evangelistic efforts. The work presents the approach to the evangelization of the current magisterium says and what the key ideas for evangelism states Apostolic Exhortation Evangelii Nuntiandi, especially what should be its content, what are its methods, who is the addressee of evangelization and who the announcer. In the next step it does analyze the selected evangelistic projects. Introduces the evangelistic approach Alpha courses and community Chemin Neuf. Both evangelistic approaches explain their goals, methods, and indicate how the above mentioned principles in the document of Evangelii Nuntiandi meet these evangelistic projects.
