

Abstrakt

Bachelor thesis is devoted to social assistance to mothers in a shelter for mothers with children. The main research question is: What was the life story of a mother before coming to the shelter?

The theoretical part of this thesis contains a description of family in today's society, its possible problems, social services and shelters for mothers with children. This section describes the definition, objectives, mission and types of shelters, as well as the methods used here and emergency assistance.

The practical part consists of methodical part, where qualitative research was used. This part presents the research sample and the results obtained from the interviews.