

Abstract

The content of this bachelor thesis is a commented translation of the source text written in French into Czech language. The thesis consists of two parts. The first part consists of a translation of selected chapters from the book Anorexie, boulimie, obésité written by Gérard Apfeldorfer. The second part consists of a commentary on the translated text which deals with the analysis of the source text, the concept of translation and eventually translation problems and their solutions.

Keywords

commented translation, translation analysis, translation problems and their solutions, eating disorders