

ABSTRACT:

This bachelor thesis consists of two main parts. The first part presents a translation of the introduction and the first chapter from the French book Décoder le langage du corps written by Isabelle Duvernois. The second part includes a translation analysis of the source text, discusses individual translation problems and describes their particular solutions.