

This paper discusses pension reform and its contribution to capital market development. Focus is being put on pension reform based on funded accounts what involves establishment of pension funds. Thorough these funds and their impact on financial system is the influence of pension reform presented. In addition, an influence of pension reform on capital market in Chile is included as a model example.