ABSTRACT:

The topic of this thesis is to investigate the influence of the headmaster on pupils' educational results. The aim is to suggest and verify a model suitable for analyzing the influence of the headmaster on pupils' educational results. The basic research question is the following: „How can we analyze the relationship between pupils' educational results and various aspects of work of the headmaster?“ The objective was achieved by the following manner. At first, they were defined by means of the educational results of pupils in the theoretical part and, based on the study of foreign resources, the fields of work of the headmasters that have an influence on pupils' educational results were listed. The influence of the headmaster on educational results of a selected research sample of pupils was examined, described and quantified in the research part by means of a survey (in the form of an interview), its analysis, synthesis and evaluation. Subsequently, the relationship between the quality of work of the headmaster and the educational results of pupils was defined and evaluated according to the results achieved in NIQES testing by pupils of the fifth and ninth grades of the schools included in the selected survey sample. In the concluding part of the research, it was determined, whether there exists a mutual correlation between the evaluation of various aspects of work of the headmaster and the quality of pupils' results in the given school. The research hypothesis, however, has not been confirmed, due to many factors mentioned above.
