

This thesis describes German policy towards Middle East from the German point of view. It focuses on German foreign policy towards Middle East at the turn of 20th and 21st century before the elections in 2002. How and why did German Middle East policy change over the past decades and can we see any continuity? What are the main factors in this context?