

In this thesis, aimed on social construction of reality, I will be mainly concentrate, besides clasical sociological pieces, on thoughts of American philosopher – Richard Rorty. For this reason, the first part will be dedicated to his most well-known works, in which the so-called turn from objectivity to solidarty, to the several influences that caused this process and to the conclusions that end in liberal irony. Especially those postmodern conclusions i would like to re-think and try to apply in the second part of this thesis on the nowadays religiosity in Europe, with emphasis on option of inter-religious dialogue between islam and the West.
