

Abstract

This thesis analyzes the evolution of the relationship between the three powers and their relations with Turkey and Greece. In the case of Turkey from the interwar period to the approval of the Marshall Plan in April 1948. For Greece, the second half of the Second World War to the approval of the Marshall Plan. The work is divided into chapters that overlap in time, pursuing what is happening in other areas. The study of literature and sources the author came to assess the economic situation in post-war Europe and the Soviet foreign policy by the United States for direct involvement not only in Europe but also in other parts of the world. Soviet policy also allowed for greater rapprochement policy of Great Britain and the United States and countries in Western and Southern Europe.

Key words

Convention of Montreux, Kars, Ardahan, Greek Civil War, Cold War, Truman Doctrine, Marshall Plan