

Abstract

There is used an ethnographic method in this research focused on group of cyclist in postmodern city of Prague. I used Maffesoli's concept of neo tribes to write about group of people with fluid and liquid identity. They argue with their style for democracy in public realm of the city and for sustainable society. In Fact they fight for piece of space in the city for cyclist.