

Abstract

The theme of my thesis is looking into phenomenon of social entrepreneurship in relation to associations. My aim was to determine how associations devote social businesses in the Czech Republic. The theoretical section is mainly used to understand the basic concepts and related to social entrepreneurship. Based on research, my aim was to find the ideal conception of social enterprise for the Czech environment.

The empirical section presents examples of good practise through specific associations and their business. I verify the ideal conception of social enterprise through associations and I am interested in whether that social business could obtain additional funding to associations. The escalation of my thesis are recommendations for associations on how to become a successful social enterprise.
