

Abstract:

This research study is focused on the awareness of adolescents on the child's duties which they stemming from a Czech family law. The main goal is, using of analysis of individual provisions of the legislation of the child's duties in the Act No. 89/2012 Coll., Civil Code, to determine the awareness of adolescent about these duties. Intermediate objectives is to determine whether the duties according to their opinion, fulfils in practice, the acquired data to compare and submit proposal for a teaching of this issue, including the design of its incorporation in school education programmes in selected schools. The survey is carried out among 120 sixteen – eighteen year-old students' of the Business Academy and Secondary technical school in Prague, in the form of empirical investigation quantitative method, questionnaire survey in written. Stems from him, that although teens do not have awareness of the duties, an obligation in practice performs. Comparison of the results of the investigation then showed that the obtained data from the selected schools were, at the 5% level, found statistically significant differences. In conclusion is designed the project of teaching in this field, as an extension of the curriculum on Rights of the Child, including its incorporation into school study programs selected colleges.