

Nonmarital and marital fertility in the Czech Republic and from international perspective. Trends, patterns and attitudes.

Abstract

The aim of this master thesis is to describe the development trends of marital and nonmarital fertility in the Czech Republic and to analyze selected indicators of fertility. As tools are used to certain methods of demographic analysis. The first part addressis the basic concepts related to the issue of marital and nonmarital fertility, data sources and a description of the historical development of nonmartial fertility. The analytical part include basic analysis of fertility by age, marital status, education, birth order and the decomposition of the total fertility rate and proportion of childern born outsider marriage in the Czech Republic and Austria too.

Keywords: marital fertility, nonmarital fertility, decomposition, total fertility rate, value orientation