

Abstract

In this short qualitative study, which is called „MANAGERINESS AS MOTHERS. LIFE STORIES THAT LEADS TO INTERRUPTION OF SOCIAL CONCESSIONS...“, author is dealing with the issue of combining family and working life in lives of Czech women in managerial positions. Eight communication partners that participated in this study show us with their life story, that even mothers can be professionally successful. In an analysis of interviews, subjects such as planned motherhood, changes in lifestyle after the birth of a child, instruments that help to harmonize family and working life, home care or the importance of education and money in lives of these women, are shown. At the end of the study the author comes to conclusion that their success costs not only their determination and help from surrounding, but also on their financial possibilities, that their positions bring to them.
