

Abstract

Title: Case study of the physiotherapy treatment of a patient with the diagnosis: status after bilateral hallux valgus surgery

Objectives: The first aim of this Bachelor thesis is summary of theoretical knowledge which is connected with hallux valgus. The second aim of this work is study of a patient after surgery of hallux valgus.

Summary: This thesis consists of two parts – general and special part. The teoretical part is a summary of the most important information from literature like etiology, diagnostics, clinical picture or treatment. The special part contains anamnesis, examination, aims of therapy, therapy, short-term and long-term plan and evaluation of the whole therapy.

Keywords: case study, physiotherapy, hallux valgus, surgery