

Abstract:

The main goal of this bachelor thesis is to outline connections between drug use and high risk sexual behavior of visitors of České Budějovice dance scene. Methods: The results of this survey are based on the structured anonymous questionnaire answered by 100 visitors of different dance parties in České Budějovice. Results: It is apparent that use of drugs and high risk sexual behavior are directly related. The overwhelming majority of respondents who behaved irresponsibly sexually or they consider their own behavior dangerous, have behaved this way under the influence of drug. In most cases alcohol was the drug of use, sometimes a combination with another drug. Closure: People with long life drug use are much more common at dance parties in České Budějovice if compared with general population. Results have shown that most respondents (89 %) have at least one experience with risky sexual behavior. Based on the results of this survey we can state that use of drugs and sexual risky behavior are directly related.
