

ABSTRACT IN ENGLISH

There are many things which cause damage to the environment involving noise, although the damage caused to the environment by noise is not one of the most discussed topics in area of environmental protection. The negative effect caused by noise is as bad as the negative effect caused by other sources of damage. For this reason the extent of noise made by using devices and providing services have to be regulated by law. The legislative regulation is the only possible way to provide effective protection to the human health and well-being as well as the environment. Creation of appropriate legislation for the issue of noise, and its effect on the environment and ensuring that this legislation will be followed, and exacted should be a priority in trying to protect the environment against noise.