

This bachelor's thesis describes main components of the Animator software project. Animator offers studying of file sorting algorithms. Users can single-stop algorithms or watch tapes with sorted elements on variable oriented views. Algorithm progress may be influenced by changing variable values or elements placed on tapes. Users also may orient on examining algorithm effectivity using statistics collected during algorithm progress. It is possible to extend Animator by new views or file sorting algorithms.