

Abstract This bachelor work is focused on youth in Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren and describes how the work with youth looks like. The text is divided in two parts, the first one is theoretical, the second one is practical. The first chapter from practical part contains description of the term youth from various aspects: ecclesial, biblical and developmental psychology. Next chapter describes specifics of work with youth in the Christian environment and these specifics are applied on work with youth in Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren. Besides actual view on the work with youth, the text provides historical perspective of its development. The last chapter in the theoretical part deals with other activities, which are connected with youth work. The practical part of this bachelor work provides results from questionnaire survey, which was addressed to priests in Evangelical Church of Czech Brethren. The questionnaire survey aimed to examine the practical aspects of the work with youth in individual congregations.
