

ABSTRACT

Diploma thesis „Gender and manpower in production companies in the Chomutov region“ is focused on historically and sociologically oriented research of employment of men and women in production companies in the Chomutov region over last 50 and 70 years respectively.

The main aspects which are included in the theoretical part of this work are gender relations in the production companies, that is the history of the employment of women, horizontal and vertical gender segregation including wages and salaries and employee education. The analyzed data are from the period of mid 20th century and the beginning of the 21st century and focus primarily on the production companies of The Tube and Iron Rolling Mill and their current successor Sandvik. By means of data analysis, the methodical part of the thesis describes differences and changes which have occurred in the horizon of last 50 and 70 years in the manpower employment in production companies with respect to gender.

KEYWORDS

Gender, Feminism, Manpower, Socialism, The Tube and Iron Rolling Mill, Production, Chomutov