

Aims of the thesis

Gather available information on the historical development of swimming in our country and around the world through research and foreign literature mainly focus on the origins of this phenomenon in Pre-Classical and Classical periods in the history of mankind. Another goal was to enrich the textual material presented pictorial documentation that would have typified the appropriate form and completed it.

method

To capture the development of swimming from the very beginning in chronological sequence, the method of historical. The ultimate goal of this method is the whole show in its main features so that it can penetrate better and clearer to his knowledge, structure and development trends.

results

Illuminate the oldest chapter of history from its beginnings swimming and provides a more detailed picture of the role and significance of this phenomenon during the Pre-Classical and Classical.

Keywords

Ancient Time, Pre-Classical period, history, swimming development.