

The bachelor thesis deals with the development of motoric skills of floorball players. The aim of this thesis is the processing of summer training for players in category men and older juniors. This plan is performed in the framework of annual training program of team FbC Strakonice. The realisation of summer training allows the comparison of players' performance before and after training. This thesis is intended for all sportsmen as well as beginning floorball coaches.