

ABSTRACT:

Problems with infertility is very actual theme, each sixth couple, which decide to have children, deal with the problem of infertility. This bachelor thesis makes efforts to give a summary of possibility. At first there is a clarification of infertility (both the men's one and the women's one), causes of sterility and possibility of screening infertility (including immunology issues). The thesis is focused on various opportunity of solution the problem: form of treatment infertility, especially assisted reproduction and its various modifications. Very discussed solution is surrogate maternity, which is elaborated. And at last the opportunity of adoption, which is for many people the end of unsuccessful treatment. The research part is aimed at describe and analyse individual case of women, who are forced to deal with given problem, which opportunities the women choose or chose (with respect to state of health, life attitude, faith and financial opportunities). The conclusion of research part is formulation of advices and recommendations to women centend with sterility or to women who will be forced to solve this problem.