

Abstract (in English):

The main objective of this thesis is the evaluation of remains of structures uncovered by rescue archaeological excavations in Stará Boleslav. Practical part consists of evaluation and dating of layers, structures and artefacts. The evaluation is followed by summering its results in context of development of Stará Boleslav. The theoretical part deals with comparison of architectonic structures revealed on other fortified centers in Bohemia, their constructions and the conditions and possibilities of their preservation. It also summarizes preserved structures with focus on log houses.