The role of Social and Legal Authority providing protection of Children in the process of arranging adoptions

This thesis deal with the The role of Social and Legal Authority providing protection of Children in the process of arranging adoptions. The Social and legal protection of children is one of the most important activity. The state cares about children without parents. The aim of adoption is acceptance of another person as their own.

The thesis is divided into two parts and six chapters. The first part is devoted to institute of adoption. The Civil Code changed view of the adoption. Now the adoption isn't one of the types foster care of children, but the adoption is at the same level like biology relationship between parents and children. The first chapter describes historical development of adoption. The Second chapter describes the institute of adoption, for example sorts of law, main characteristics, type and conditions of adoption, consents with adoption, care before adoption and revocation of adoption.

The second part describes process of arranging adoption. The third chapter describes social and legal protection of children. This chapter is devoted to term social and legal protection, historical development and authorities. The fourth chapter is the main of chapter, which is devoted to process of arranging of adoption. There is the most important role of the Social and Legal Authority. This chapter describes the parts of the process of arranging, for example searching children, professional training applicants of adoption, register of children, register of applicants of adoption. The authorities have to choose good adopter for child not eligible child for adopter. Interest of the child is the most important rule. The fifth chapter is devoted international adoption. The sixth chapter describes process of adoption in the Great Britain, Poland and Denmark.

The aim of my thesis was to describe the role of Social and Legal Authority providing protection of Children in the process of arranging adoptions, because it is very important reduced the number of children in children's home, because every child deserves to grow up in family.
