

ABSTRACT

Title of diploma thesis: Chaining of the musculoskeletal disorders from various viewpoints in physiotherapy

Objective: The purpose of this thesis is to research available literary sources concerning the meaning of the term chaining of the musculoskeletal disorders in the field of physiotherapy and describing possible mechanisms of this phenomena. In addition, the thesis researchs literary resources showing demonstrations of various concepts and authors that work with this topic, including examples of various chains.

Methods: This diploma thesis has descriptively-analytical character. It is structured in the form of literary research.

Results: On the basis of the researched literary sources, the thesis explains the meaning of the term chaining of musculoskeletal disorders in physiotherapy. Based on the meaning, we showed various possible mechanisms of this phenomena. Subsequently, we found various demonstrations of works of various concepts and authors in this field including examples of various chain structures.

Key words: chain, chaining, disorder, movement system