

ABSTRACT

Title: Reorganization of the First Czech Football League

Objectives: The main objective of the thesis was to find opinions of sports redactors on changing structure in the first Czech football league.

Methods: We used a poll for finding our objectives. The poll was create in application click4survey.cz and it was sending by email to all respondents. The respondents were 50 football journalists. The rate of return of the poll was 46%.

Results: In our research 73% of respondents agree with a new model of league. They accede with raising of count of matches in czech league (64%). They concur that more matches in season will improve footballer performance (64%) and financial income (55%). 55% of journalist approve with the play-off between the first and the second league.

Conclusion: The footballer journalist agree with the benefits of a higher matches in the league and new structure of the league.

Keywords: 1. Czech league, number of matches in the season, profesional football in Czech republic, gaming structure in e-pojistení league