

Perception of danger/safety in Brandýs nad Labem – Stará Boleslav from the perspective of students and seniors

Abstract

The aim of the bachelor thesis is to find out what are the differences in the perception of fear among seniors and students living in the Brandýs nad Labem - Stara Boleslav. Emphasis is also on identifying the places that these groups regard as safe and dangerous, and the reasons that led to this perception. For achieving the objectives was carried out a survey among seniors and students in Brandýs nad Labem - Stara Boleslav. The results showed that some places are considered by respondents as more risky, or conversely safer, and that there is a difference between the selected groups. The next reasons were identified, which led to this perception (physical and social aspects, etc.).
