

The topic of my thesis is Family and Divorce - Child's Reaction to Parents' Divorce and the Possibilities of its Mastery of Perspective Social and Legal Protection of Children of Prague 12. It aims to describe how children react to divorce their parents in various stages of development, to experience life and how it can help the family during and after the divorce from the perspective of social work. It deals with the definition of individual terms that relate to the topic. Include for instance the concept of family, marriage, divorce. The basic theme of this work is a chapter of divorce, which carries under sub-chapter. These include divorce rate in the Czech Republic, the phase of the divorce, but above all a great theme children and divorce. Inside this chapter are hiding topics related to children's reactions to divorce their parents at various stages but also the reaction of sibling vs. singleton. Finally, this paper mentions the principles of helping people who are going through divorce, from the perspective of social work. This work is supported by case studies from practices that relate to this issue and can outline linking theory with practice.
