

The topic of this thesis focuses on the online services in the National Technical Library in Prague including e-books, the acquisition of e-magazines through consortiums and the different search catalogues that are available to users. The thesis also provides an overview of other services offered such as the TECH Subject Gateway, the Virtual Polytechnic Library, the National Repository of Grey Literature, eBooks on Demand and Ask you Library. The aim of this thesis is to evaluate the current benefits of the online services for users and to determine the future direction of their development.