

Abstrakt v anglickém jazyce

Journal of the National Muzeum is our oldest, still printed scientific magazine. We can find out in its history many of well-know personalities of 19th century, dealing on its start and leading to bright future. It also represents one of the oldest Czech scientific institutions, the National Muzeum.

Author describes development of important Czech scientifically periodical, Journal of the National Muzeum. Based on source she presents bibliographical view and accents significant moments in its history. She's trying to describe and to introduce personalities, which have led this periodical and its authors. Her goal is to represent history of this periodical, which can help other researchers with similar theme.

Keywords: Journal of the National Muzeum, National Muzeum, Matice česká, František Palacký