The topic of the bachelor thesis is the perception of life-quality of seniors residing in facility of social services. In the theoretical part I have described the aging process, ranking of human values and perception of life-quality with the ongoing changes in the organism of elderly people. In the empirical part I have used the quantitative method of questionnaire investigation. Questions of both types of questionnaires are enclosed. I have co-operated with fifty clients form Domovy Na Třešňovce in Česká Skalice. Set objectives correspond to the results.
