

In our thesis we concentrate on a well-known problem which is popular among the scientists from the field of logistics, theoretical computer science and applied mathematics. This problem is called the Vehicle Routing Problem. We concentrate mainly on the Vehicle Routing Problem with Time Window. We implement some scheduling algorithms and compare their results.