

Annotation

The aim of this diploma thesis is to sketch out the issue of cyberbullying among children and adolescents. At first, the term „traditional bullying”, its definition and division is defined in the thesis. The main topic of the thesis is cyberbullying, its definition, features and typology. Characteristics of particular participants of cyberbullying are depicted. One of the chapters deals with the consequences of cyberbullying for particular groups of cyberbullying participants. The diploma thesis focuses also on the possibilities of prevention and intervention in cyberbullying and organizations dealing with cyberbullying are mentioned here.

The practical part of the thesis endeavors, with a use of a questionnaire survey, to find out possibilities of dealing with the issue of cyberbullying from the point of view of social work, particularly at the departments of child protection.