

This thesis describes technical aspects of the successful implementation of the open source VuFind library resource portal at the National Library of Technology. Using source code analysis, the thesis provides a useful guide to deploying VuFind at czech library. The thesis confirms that VuFind is a capable solution for enabling efficient and effective searching and browsing of integrated library resources.